

Lauren and Emily Failla Foundation Scholarship

Deadline: March 15, 2013

Lauren and Emily Failla spent the majority of their educational years within the Morris School District, with each successfully graduating from Morristown High School in 2003 and 2000, respectively. Each was involved in a variety of activities, from tennis to art, the school theatre, and National Honor Society. Both girls also volunteered their time in the community, serving through their local church, the first aid squad, and mentoring younger students.

Those who knew Lauren and Emily describe them as two of the nicest young women, with the biggest hearts imaginable. They valued their friends and understood that in order to have a good friend, one had to be a good friend.

The recipients of the Lauren and Emily Failla Foundation Scholarship will be selected based on their integrity, acts of kindness that positively contribute to their school and/or community, and a personal recommendation. One $1,000 scholarship will be awarded to the selected student.
